Adm. Stansfield Turner
Director Designate
The Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Admiral Turner:

I thought you might be interested in the enclosed editorial which will appear in the March issue of Change. As I note in the piece, the nature of the relationship between the agency and the academy has generated little heat among educators, although there are, I think, important questions of principle involved. But it occurred to me that if the educational establishment is unwilling to examine the matter with any care, the CIA might regain much of its eroded credibility in the nation's colleges and universities by raising the issue on its own initiative.

Incidentally, if the Amherst Student is to be believed, you and I seem to have habited the same Chi Psi bedroom, though with a 30 year interval. I can assure you that the pipes, radiators, and possibly even the mattresses had not been changed during that period of time.

Cordially,
